An Integrative Approach Cram101

Using cases from the authors' files or from case files of other working clinicians, CASEBOOK IN ABNORMAL PSYCHOLOGY portrays the rich and arresting nature of disorders manifested in real people. Cases illustrate every major DSM-IV category, followed by a therapy outcome section that tells the rest of the story of what happened to these clients. Using an integrative approach, the authors emphasize the multiple causes of disorders and incorporate developmental and cultural issues in each case. Complex cases are presented without a diagnosis, so students can come up with a diagnosis on their own. This Fourth Edition includes a new case on body dysmorphic disorder as well as two new cases without a diagnosis. Body Image in Eating Disorders explores issues relating to the prevention, clinical diagnosis, and psychological treatment of distortions of body image in eating disorders. It presents a multifactorial model of indicators for diagnosis and treatment, considering psychological, sociocultural, and family indicators. Based on original empirical research with women and girls suffering from eating disorders, the book draws attention to limitations and dilemmas related to psychological diagnosis and treatment of people with eating disorders including anorexia readiness syndrome, bulimia, and bigorexia. The book proposes an integrative psychodynamic approach to the diagnosis and treatment of body image disorders and presents case studies illustrating examples of application of integration of psychodynamic therapy and psychodrama in psychological treatment of young people suffering from eating disorders. It considers risk factors including abnormal body image for the development of eating disorders and argues that psychological diagnosis of the body image is an important factor in determining the right direction of psychological treatment for people with eating disorders. Drawing on theoretical foundations and evidence-based clinical practice, the book will be of great interest to researchers, academics, and students in the fields of clinical and applied psychology, mental health, and specialists in eating disorders.

Case Studies in Abnormal Psychology presents a broad range of cases drawn from the clinical experience of authors Kenneth N. Levy, Kristen M. Kelly, and William J. Ray to take readers beyond theory into real-life situations. The authors take a holistic approach by including multiple perspectives and considerations, apart from those of just the patient. up in many case studies gives students a deeper understanding of each psychopathology and the effects of treatment over time.

This breakthrough book offers professors and students a more authentic, personal, and thoroughly scientific picture of what psychological disorders are and how they can be assessed and managed. Unlike the piecemeal "single-cause, single treatment" model offered in other abnormal psychology texts, Barlow and Durand demonstrate that disorders are determined by multiple forces: biological, psychological, social, cultural, familial, and political forces, the only approach that today's scientists would subscribe to. Writing in narrative, forceful prose, the authors challenge readers to think about how and why people become troubled and what is done to help them. Throughout the book, Barlow and Durand masterfully integrate concepts with case examples and citations from the literature to demonstrate the connection between research and practice. And, because in contemporary thinking therapy cannot be viewed separately from the disorder, the latest and most effective treatments (both drug and psychosocial) are discussed within the context of the disorder.
