In 1962, the Reformation scholar Hans Hillerbrand said the following of Menno Simons: “For the past four hundred years he (has been) a man with a ‘bad press’—criticized not only by all of his foes outside his tradition, but also by many of his friends within.” Outsiders accused him of, at the very least, sympathizing if not actively supporting the revolutionaries involved in the notorious Münster uprising of 1534–1535, the jihadists of the sixteenth century. Many insiders, at first fearful that this might indeed be the case, sought early to distance themselves from him, calling themselves Doopsgezinde rather than Mennists. Later, other insiders, having moved beyond Menno theologically under the influence of the Enlightenment and Rationalism, criticized him for being overly dogmatic and narrow-minded. Only a few pietists like Jung

Stilling and pietistically influenced Dutch Mennonites like Johannes Deknatel, together with the occasional Baptist scholar like J. Newton Brown, spoke highly of him. Indeed, the latter said of Menno: “But there stood one among them (the great reformers) whom they knew not; who was greater than they—more truly eminent in the likeness of their common Lord.” In a first section, this study begins with a chapter on the problem of reform in the sixteenth century. A second section on the 1534–1535 Münster uprising that has so bedeviled Menno historiography follows. Both sections seek to recreate, at least to a degree, the larger context of Menno’s life and activity and free him from the prejudices of the past. It does so by making the case—not made heretofore—that Menno was powerfully influenced, not by the revolutionaries, but by the two intellectual giants of the age: Martin Luther and Desiderius Erasmus. But the study also takes seriously Menno's repeated assertion that he had experienced a life-transforming conversion through the power of the Holy Spirit in early 1535. With this as background, the study then investigates—in a chronological sequence—the key problem areas of Menno scholarship that have arisen over the years. It concludes with a brief assessment of his legacy. Penny & Monique's Caribbean Adventure: The Tale of the Dancing Frogs

In the summer of 1949 fifteen smokejumpers parachuted into a remote Montana canyon called

Mann Gulch. It started as a very small fire in rugged country but within two hours after landing, thirteen of these young men were caught in a raging inferno and were killed. They died bravely, together with their friends, and in the service of their country. Everyone was young and attractive, healthy and strong, enthusiastic and in love. They were bursting into the prime of their lives. There were no malcontents here. Everyone did their best but events overtook them.

Until now the actual time line has never been connected to the people involved. Fire in Montana connects the lives of young smokejumpers who lived with a joy of life and expectations of shining futures, the forest rangers and volunteers who fought valiantly to rescue them, and their families, lovers, and friends who were forced to wait and pray, then face the devastating and heart wrenching loss. Two of America's most popular authorities on healthy eating and cooking join forces in this delectable, inspiring and easy-to-use cookbook. Dr Andrew Weil - author of the best-selling Eating Well For Optimum Health - brings to this collaboration a comprehensive philosophy of nutrition grounded in science. Rosie Daley - acclaimed for her best-seller In The Kitchen With Rosie - brings to it her innovative and delicious spa cuisine.

Lifelong good health begins in the kitchen, so this is a lifestyle book as well as a cookbook. But throughout, The Healthy Kitchen emphasizes the pleasure of food - in the writing, in the anecdotes, in the commentaries, in the superb photography (including pictures of the authors at work from garden to table) and in the recipes themselves. With 135 fabulous recipes and invaluable information on what constitutes genuinely healthy eating today, this revolutionary book will change the way you cook for yourself and your family forever.

A New York Review Books Original Hav is like no place on earth. Rumored to be the site of Troy, captured during the crusades and recaptured by Saladin, visited by Tolstoy, Hitler, Grace Kelly, and Princess Diana, this Mediterranean city-state is home to several architectural marvels and an annual rooftop race that is a feat of athleticism and insanity. As Jan Morris guides us through the corridors and quarters of Hav, we hear the mingling of Italian, Russian, and Arabic in its markets, delight in its famous snow raspberries, and meet the denizens of its casinos and cafés. When Morris published Last Letters from Hav in 1985, it was short-listed for the Booker Prize. Here it is joined by Hav of the Myrmidons, a sequel that brings the story up-to-date. Twenty-first-century Hav is nearly unrecognizable. Sanitized and monetized, it is ruled by a group of fanatics who have rewritten its history to reflect their own blinkered view of the past. Morris's only novel is dazzlingly sui-generis, part erudite travel memoir, part speculative fiction, part cautionary political tale. It transports the reader to an extraordinary place that never was, but could well be.

Join Penny and Monique in another story about their Caribbean Adventure! Penny and Monique are eight year old twins, but not identical. Penny is the eldest by five minutes, but acts years older than her sister Monique. Penny is bossy, outgoing and adventurous. Monique is shy, likes her own company and is easily frightened. The twins live with their mother Angela, a teacher, and their father Stephan who works in a bank. The twins are in Jamaica for their first holiday on the island to see their Grandma Merle and their many relatives. The twins experience family fun, laughter and some scary moments on their holiday capers. This is one of their stories that is now being told. Are Uncle Leslie's tales about bullfrogs spitting out green poison to be believed? Can Penny convince anyone that she has seen some dancing frogs? Who will find the bullfrogs first? Will it be the watch dogs, Bruno and Pele? Or will it be Grandma with her big broom?
