Soil is a complex body that exists as many types, each with diverse properties that may vary widely across time and space as a function of many factors. This complexity makes the evaluation of soil quality much more challenging than that of water or air quality. Evaluation of soil quality now considers environmental implications as well as economic productivity, seeking to be more holistic in its approach. Thus, soil quality research draws from a wide range of disciplines, blending the approaches of biologists, physicists, chemists, ecologists, economists and agronomists, among others. This book presents a broad perspective of soil quality that includes these various perspectives and gives a strong theoretical basis for the assessment of soil quality. A short glossary provides definitions for terms used throughout the book.

"This book is a humble attempt to review the major taxes in Indonesia, pointing out major problems which need to be addressed to make the tax system efficient and meet the goals of fiscal policy. In Chapter one, we have reproduced the publication: Indonesian Pocket Tax Book, 1902 by Drs Hadi Sutanto and Rekan, published by PricewaterhouseCoopers. We acknowledge with thanks permission from the authors and publishers to reproduce this highly educational and updated publication. On the basis of this tax review, we have examined the tax system, as a whole from the points of view of various principles of taxation. Based on this analysis, we have built a case for comprehensive tax reforms in chapter two. In Chapter three, we have analyzed problems in the income tax and pointed out need for enlarging tax base through appropriate policies. Similarly, in Chapter four we have examined the Value Added Tax with a view to make it more revenue productive and efficient. In Appendix one, we have described the Value Added Tax in Canada, which is generally hailed in the literature as the model for federal structures like Indonesia."--P. [vi].

Spiralling inequality since the 1970s and the global financial crisis of 2008 have been the two most important challenges to democratic capitalism since the Great Depression. To understand the political economy of contemporary Europe and America we must, therefore, put inequality and crisis at the heart of the picture. In this innovative new textbook Mattias Vermeiren does just this, demonstrating that both the global financial crisis and the European sovereign debt crisis resulted from a mutually reinforcing but ultimately unsustainable relationship between countries with debt-led and export-led growth models, models fundamentally shaped by soaring income and wealth inequality. He traces the emergence of these two growth models by giving a comprehensive overview, deeply informed by the comparative and international political economy literature, of recent developments in the four key domains that have shaped the dynamics of crisis and inequality:

macroeconomic policy, social policy, corporate governance and financial policy. He goes on to assess the prospects for the emergence of a more egalitarian and sustainable form of democratic capitalism. This fresh and insightful overview of contemporary Western capitalism will be essential reading for all students and scholars of international and comparative political economy.

Written by two leading psychologists, the book looks at how people make decisions on the use of scarce resources, in particular money, from a psychological perspective. Starting with decision making and lay theories as basic building blocks of economic behaviour, the authors go on to explore three major markets where economic behaviour occurs as an interaction between individuals and companies or institutions - consumer markets, labour markets and financial markets - before considering the challenges of collective cooperation and economic prosperity. Featuring numerous applied examples throughout, each chapter also includes an overview, summary, figures, key terms, student questions and suggestions for further reading. This introduction is an essential resource for advanced undergraduate and postgraduate courses on economic psychology, behavioural economics and social psychology.
