This book contains a summary of the laws that govern business associations and are designed to help accountants spot potential problems their clients may encounter. The author, an attorney and environmental consultant, divided the material into three parts: corporations, partnerships, and agencies. Each begins with a discussion and explanation of applicable legal terminology, followed by the steps necessary to create the type of entity, the duties and responsibilities of officers and other relevant matters. The dissolution of each type of business also receives coverage.

This material provides a good refresher course on the basics of business law for the busy practitioner.

Journal of Accountancy
This book fills a major gap in the literature for professional accountants by offering a comprehensive discussion of the law concerning the three major types of business associations:

corporations, partnerships, and agencies. As Wolf notes at the outset, accountants must have adequate knowledge of the laws governing business associations if they are to successfully perform professional services for their clients--the failure to spot potential legal problems can often spell disaster for a particular business. Wolf offers a current, accurate, in-depth treatment of the laws of business association in one logically organized source, specifically written to address the needs and concerns of accounting professionals. Following an introduction, the volume is divided into three major sections each dealing with a specific type of business association. For each, Wolf draws on the relevant federal and state laws, uniform laws, common law, and judicial decisions to present a clear picture of significant issues. Section One deals with laws involving management, shareholder's rights, corporate financial structure, mergers and acquisitions, securities regulation, and dissolution. In the section devoted to partnerships, separate chapters address partnership formation, property, rights and liabilities of partners, termination, and limited partnerships. The final section covers agency creation, duties, liabilities, and termination. Taken as whole, this volume represents an important addition to the professional literature available to accountants in both corporate and private practice.

Revenue Procedure 2003-79 allows partners and S corporation shareholders to elect to report, ratably over a four-year period, income from a partnership or S corporation (hereinafter sometimes collectively referred to as an "entity") that has been accelerated because the entity was required to change its annual accounting period. The election is available only for partners or S corporation shareholders if the partnership's or corporation's taxable year no longer qualifies as a natural business year, or in the case of certain S corporations, if the corporation's taxable year no longer qualifies as an ownership taxable year. The election is further limited to partners and S corporation shareholders in cases where the acceleration of income is attributable to the short taxable year ending on or after May 10, 2002, and before June 1, 2004 (or in the case of an entity that uses a 52-53-week taxable year, with reference to the last day of any calendar month after April 30, 2002, and before June 1, 2004). Revenue Procedure 2003-79 clarifies Revenue Procedures 2002-38 and 2002-39, which, inter alia, provide procedures for a partnership or an S corporation to change its annual accounting period if its current taxable year no longer qualifies as a natural business year (or, in the case of certain S corporations, an ownership taxable year). This article discusses Revenue Procedure 2003-79 and questions why the election is available for only a short period of time.
